Asian Bond Fund

Fund Summary
as of 29 June 2021

The securities and instruments in which the sub-fund may invest are subject to market fluctuations and other risks inherent in such investments and there can be no assurance that any appreciation in value will occur.

You should be aware that past performance is not indicative of future performance. The value of the units may rise or fall as the performance of the sub-fund changes.

The risk factors may cause you to lose some or all of your investments. A description of the major risks is provided below. This is not an exhaustive list of risks.

Market and Credit Risks

You are exposed to market risks. The value of investments by the underlying fund may go up and down due to changing economic, political or market conditions, or due to an issuer's individual situation.

You are exposed to interest rate risks. The underlying fund's investment in debt securities may be subject to the risk of interest rate fluctuations which may cause the price of debt securities to go up or down. In general, as nominal interest rates rise, the value of fixed income securities is likely to fall.

You are exposed to currency risks. Changes in exchange rates between currencies or the conversion from one currency to another may cause the value of the underlying fund's investments to diminish or increase. Currency exchange rates may fluctuate significantly over short periods of time.

You are exposed to credit risks. The value of the underlying fund will be negatively affected if the issuer or guarantor of a fixed income instrument, or counterparty to a derivative contract, is unable or unwilling to meet its financial obligations.

You are exposed to sovereign debt risks. The underlying fund may invest in bonds issued or guaranteed by governments or authorities, which may involve political, economic, default or other risks.

You are exposed to emerging markets risks. Emerging markets will generally be subject to greater political, legal, counterparty and operational risks.

You are exposed to foreign investment restriction risks. Some countries prohibit or restrict investment, or the repatriation of income, capital or the proceeds from the sale of securities. The underlying fund may incur higher costs investing in these countries. Such restrictions may delay the investment or repatriation of capital of the underlying fund.

Liquidity Risks

You are exposed to liquidity risks. There is no secondary market for the sub-fund. All redemption requests should be made to the Manager. In exceptional circumstances, the sub-fund's investment in the underlying fund may not be readily redeemable.

Product-Specific Risks

You are exposed to derivatives risks. The use of derivatives may expose the underlying fund to a higher degree of risk. Derivative contracts can be highly volatile and a relatively small market movement may have a potentially larger impact on derivatives than on standard bonds or equities. Leveraged derivative position can hence increase the underlying fund's volatility. The underlying fund may sustain loss as a result of the failure of a derivatives counterparty to comply with the term of the derivative contract. The underlying fund may also use derivatives to facilitate more complex efficient portfolio management techniques.

You are exposed to distressed securities risks. The underlying fund may invest in securities issued by a company that is in financial difficulty or in default. There is no guarantee that any exchange offer or reorganisation will be successfully completed.

Asian Bond Fund

Fund Summary
as of 29 June 2021

You are exposed to non-investment grade risks. Non-investment grade securities will generally pay higher yields than more highly rated securities but will be subject to greater market credit and default risks.

You are exposed to risk of securities lending. The underlying fund may engage in securities lending. As such, the underlying fund will have a credit risk exposure to the counterparties to any securities lending contract. The underlying fund's investment can be lent to counterparties over a period of time. A default by the counterparty combined with a fall in the value of the collateral below that of the value of the securities lent may result in a reduction in the value of the underlying fund. Please refer to the section on "Use of Derivatives and Securities Lending" of the underlying fund's Singapore Prospectus for more details.

You are exposed to risk relating to distributions. The manager of the sub-fund has the absolute discretion to determine whether a distribution is to be made. The Manager also reserves the right to review and make changes to the distribution policy from time to time. Where the income generated by the sub-fund is insufficient to pay distributions as declared, the Manager may at its discretion make such distributions out of the capital of the sub-fund. In circumstances where distributions are paid out of the capital of the sub-fund, the NAV of the sub-fund will be reduced.

Material Information

Dilution and dilution adjustment of the underlying fund

The directors of the underlying fund may adjust the net asset value per share for the fund in order to reduce the effect of “dilution” on that fund. Dilution occurs when the actual cost of purchasing or selling the underlying assets of a fund, deviates from the carrying value of these assets in the fund’s valuation due to dealing charges, taxes and any spread between the buying and selling prices of the underlying assets. Dilution may have an adverse effect on the value of a fund and therefore impact shareholders. By adjusting the net asset value per share this effect can be reduced or prevented and shareholders can be protected from the impact of dilution. The directors of the underlying fund may adjust the net asset value of a fund if on any dealing day the aggregate transactions in shares of all classes of that fund result in a net increase or decrease of shares which exceeds a threshold set by the directors from time to time for that fund (relating to the cost of market dealing for that fund). In such circumstances the net asset value of the relevant fund may be adjusted by an amount (not exceeding 1.50%, or 3% in the case of fixed income Funds, of that net asset value) which reflects the dealing costs that may be incurred by the fund and the estimated bid/offer spread of the assets in which the fund invests.

Please refer to paragraph 17.3 in Appendix B of the underlying fund’s Luxembourg Prospectus for more information.
